NEW HOSPITAL OPENING – THE CAIRNS CLINIC

1 YEAR ON! ROSITA & ROSIDA

Twins Rosita and Rosida (who were separated on the 13 August 2009 at Ramsay Health Care’s Surabaya Hospital in Indonesia) are now 18 months old. Both girls are slowly achieving their milestones and are walking with a walker.

In early August 2010 Rosita had surgery performed to remove temporary abdominal skin and to close her chest and abdominal wound. A skin graft was taken from her right thigh for this operation.

Ramsay Health Care officially opened The Cairns Clinic in September 2010, a new mental health hospital for the people of Far North Queensland.

The new hospital, located on Sheridan Street in Cairns, will offer day and inpatient programs for privately referred patients who suffer from mental health issues such as depression and anxiety disorders as well as alcohol detoxification and rehabilitation.

Clinic CEO Mark Page said mental illness was an increasing problem for all communities across Australia with a vast number of Australians experiencing some form of mental illness each year.

“When we looked outside of Brisbane we realised there was a startling lack of private psychiatric units. The entire region has been very much lacking in private psychiatric services. The closest dedicated private mental health facilities are in Brisbane so private patients in far north Queensland who require inpatient treatment for mental health issues have, until now, been forced to travel to Brisbane and leave behind their families and support networks, which is not really ideal or cost effective,” Mark said.

“We expect that this new facility will provide sorely needed services for patients suffering with mental illness in the north Queensland region,” Mark said.

The development is expected to provide a major boost not only to health services in Far North Queensland but also to the local economy. Ramsay has committed significant upfront capital costs and the facility, when operational, is expected to directly inject over $2 million per annum into the local economy.

Local Cairns Psychiatrist Dr Paul Trott is the Director of Medical Services of the new hospital and believes that The Cairns Clinic will be a major boost for mental health services in the region.

“This is a very exciting development for Cairns and the whole North Queensland area. Private mental health services are poorly lacking in this region and sufferers of mental health disorders will benefit greatly from this new facility,” Dr Trott said.
The RUOK? Day initiative is a national day of action dedicated to reducing stress and depression by encouraging all Australians to connect with friends, loved ones and workmates by asking “are you OK?”.

According to the National Survey of Mental Health, 45% of the Australian Workforce will have a mental health disorder such as anxiety or depression during their working life, yet only 12% seek treatment.

This year’s theme was “in the time it takes to have a coffee, you could start a conversation that could change a life.” RUOK? Day is about helping to stop little problems turning into big ones so it’s not just about asking those in crisis but reaching out to anyone you’re concerned about.

RUOK? Day dovetails perfectly with The Ramsay Way values, our company ethos of “people caring for people” and Ramsay Health Care’s commitment to providing quality mental health services.

The new north wing of North Shore Private Hospital is now open for patients with the official opening ceremony scheduled for late October 2010.

The multimillion dollar expansion of the hospital includes 57 private en suite rooms, additional state-of-the-art theatres and two new birthing suites. The hospital is now a 24/7 bed private hospital collocated on the campus of the Royal North Shore Hospital in Sydney.

The new north wing will assist the hospital to meet the growing demand for private hospital services in Sydney’s north shore. Our staff and doctors are excited about being able to expand the services we provide with this new development.

What an excellent achievement by Ramsay’s hospitals particularly Glenfield in Victoria in being voted the country’s second best hospital by Medibank Private members across the country.

Our rural and regional hospitals also did very well in this survey with Albury Wodonga, Tamara and Armidale Private Hospitals all achieving best private hospital accolades for New South Wales and best rural and regional private hospitals in the nation.

These hospitals are major employers and industries in their regions, contributing significantly to their local economies. It is terrific to see that excellent patient satisfaction and good customer service is also a key focus in these local private hospitals.

The bush has fared well with the outcome of the election giving regional independents the balance of power and a commitment from government towards improving regional healthcare services. Ramsay Health Care would like to see that private hospitals are included in the discussions around expanding hospital services in rural and regional areas and to this end, I am meeting with Tony Windsor and Rob Oakeshott in October to discuss this. During recent times, with an expanding privately insured population, we have been able to expand services such as rehabilitation, mental health and cancer services, to better meet the needs of the community in some of our regional hospitals. Importantly, we also recruit doctors to work in our facilities from metropolitan areas who then work across the public and private hospital systems in these regions.

Public and private hospitals make up rural health and we hope to continue to work together with the public health services to assist the expansion of regional and rural health services.

This month there are two key events happening in Ramsay Health Care. Firstly, we celebrate RUOK? Day on 7 October. RUOK? is about recognising that many people around us suffer with mental illness. Given Ramsay’s experience in mental health and our focus on staff wellness, we are delighted to be able to participate in something that may have some benefit for staff who suffer with this debilitating condition. I am aware of many activities that are going on around the company for RUOK? Day and am really pleased that this Day will provide a good opportunity for us to focus on helping our fellow colleagues.

The second event is “Tomorrow Starts Today.” This forum for nurse unit managers and senior educators being held State-by-State later in October, is about recognising that we need to put more emphasis on the sustainability of our nursing workforce. We will take the time on this day to discuss strategies and get valuable feedback from nurse unit managers about how we should address the nursing workforce shortage and what we can do to maintain a great and sustainable workforce.

I am really looking forward to hearing the ideas of those at the face-to-face workshops.

Ramsay Health Care National HR Manager Carolyn Terry said RUOK? Day was also a perfect opportunity to remind everyone about some of the relevant tools and resources available to all Ramsay employees via the company’s Wellness Program.

“Our Employee Assistance Program (EAP) provides Ramsay staff and their families access to free and confidential short-term professional counselling support for concerns that arise from either home or from work,” Carolyn said.

Ramsay Health Care has been successful in being shortlisted to one of two candidates that will be considered to develop a private hospital collocated with the proposed Sunshine Coast University Hospital.

The company will now put in a submission to Queensland Health, as part of the formal tender process. It is expected that the new hospital, to be based at Kawana, will be open and operational by the end of 2013.

NEW MATERNITY UNIT AT NORTH WEST ON TRACK

North West Private Hospital in Brisbane is on track to open its new maternity wing and additional birthing suite in early 2011.

This expansion is part of the progressive redevelopment of the North West site which has been underway for some time and included the expansion of the hospital’s cancer care day unit, day procedure centre and operating theatres.

North West CEO Jane McGrath said the additional labour suite and assessment room will be particularly important to meet the growing birth rate in the northern corridor of Brisbane.

The project includes 3D new beds in the maternity unit including some executive suites. “We have an excellent reputation at North West for maternity services and this extension will be welcomed by doctors, staff and patients,” Jane said.

JOONDALUP REDEVELOPMENT UPDATE

The staff carpark (approximately 400 bays) is now complete at Joondalup Health Campus (JHC). Construction of the theatre and clinical care unit block will start later this year and the public ward block along with the emergency department is on track to open in the first half of 2011.

The emergency department currently, under construction, will be almost two and a half times the size of the existing emergency department. The 56 bed department with improved facilities will better enable the Hospital to treat the 60,000 plus patients that present to the department each year.

ST ANDREW’S IPSWICH TO UNDERGO EXPANSION

A multimillion dollar redevelopment and expansion of St Andrew’s Ipswich Private Hospital incorporating new theatres, procedure rooms, an expanded theatre recovery area as well as a new day of surgery area and discharge lounge has been approved as Stage 1 of a Master Plan for the Hospital.

Ramsay Health Care has approved the construction of these new facilities in recognition of the growing demand for private healthcare services in Ipswich and the Greater West Moreton region.

The proposed Master Plan for the Hospital includes a timely, staged onsite expansion of hospital services over the next few years. It is proposed to progress with these developments following the completion of the theatre development which is Stage 1.

St Andrew’s Ipswich Private Hospital last year celebrated its 100th anniversary - the hospital has been providing private hospital services to the Ipswich community since 1909.

St Andrew’s CEO Chris Murphy said with an expanding and ageing population in the Ipswich area, the hospital had been operating at close to full capacity, and the expansion of the theatre areas would be welcome by staff and doctors.

“This will be a major development for the hospital providing us with two new theatres, a relocated procedure room and additional capacity in our theatre waiting and recovery areas,” Chris said.

He said the theatres would be equipped with the latest state-of-the-art theatre technology. “Our ongoing refurbishment program over the last few years has allowed us to significantly improve our current facilities including expansion of our surgical unit, refurbishment of our maternity unit and public areas of the hospital and also our mental health day program area.

“We believe that this Master Plan for St Andrew’s will take us into the next decade and allow us to meet the growing demand for private hospital services in the Ipswich and West Moreton region in the years to come.”

The development would commence in early January 2011 and construction is expected to take 6 to 9 months.
RIVERS HOSPITAL WINS 9TH PLACE IN TOP UK HEALTHCARE POLL

The Rivers Hospital in Sawbridgeworth was named recently as one of the top 10 independent healthcare employers in the UK, for the second year running.

"We know that Rivers is a very special place, where staff combine professionalism and friendliness to give excellent patient care," Richard said. "It is an honour for our staff to be recognized as a winning team at a national level."

RAMSAY UK RATES TOP PERFORMER IN PATIENT SATISFACTION

Ramsay UK achieved the best overall patient satisfaction scores across all facilities for the past two years recently with a score of 92.4%. Patient satisfaction is a big focus in Ramsay’s UK facilities and drives improvement in the business.

"It is just incredible that the senior midwives are today delivering the grandchildren of mothers they delivered when they were just starting out in the Shire," Mr. Daniel said.

"We also delivered two sets of twins simultaneously in February. It was particularly quiet in March and then April rolled on too. We have an open day on Fridays throughout the rest of the year and into 2011 for people to explore the maternity services.

2700 YEAR OLD MUMMY GETS CT SCAN

Ramsay UK’s Oaks Hospital in Colchester recently conducted a CT Scan on its oldest and most unusual patient.

"It will be interesting to see what happens to the trend throughout the rest of the year and into 2011."
HOLLYWOOD LEADS WITH LATEST ANGIOGRAPHY SUITE

Australia’s first and only fully operational Siemens Artis Zeego angiography suite has been launched at Hollywood Private Hospital and is providing unrivalled cutting-edge medical technology offering increased efficiency and safety to both doctors and patients.

The expansion and substantial refurbishment of existing facilities brings the number of angiography rooms at Hollywood to three. The $6.1 million new suite includes the installation of a multi-axis cardiovascular imaging system, the first operational system of its kind in an angiography suite in Australia and New Zealand.

Since its launch in mid-June 2010, Hollywood’s new angiography suite has already benefited over 60 patients, including patients undergoing endoluminal aortic grafts as well as cardioiology procedures. Both medical teams and patients are experiencing the benefits of the new facility in terms of speed, safety, efficiency and patient comfort according to Kevin Cass-Ryall, Executive Director of Hollywood Private Hospital.

“Patients will benefit from this system as doctors will be able to perform procedures with far more speed and safety. The software used within the system enables doctors to accurately map where they are going inside the patient’s vessels and results in quicker decision making. It offers radiation-free positioning, more flexibility and mobility and offers the patients and the doctors far more comfort during the procedure,” Kevin said.

The new suite offers benefits to many specialists, and now extends to servicing specific needs of cardiologists, electrophysiologists, radiologists, nuclear medicine practitioners, pain specialists and, of course, vascular surgeons.

Each of the suites has 3D imaging capabilities, to remain at the forefront of technological advances, and all labs are being equipped with Siemens CCTV integration which will be used for conferencing and teaching purposes.

In addition to doctors and patients, the environment will also benefit from the angiography suite. As part of Hollywood’s commitment to the environment the new suites will also allow for streamlining of existing processes to offer a paperless environment in the future.

“Both cardiology and vascular operators have experienced great benefit from the flexibility of the Zeego. We are all excited about having the latest technology in Western Australia and beyond its primary purpose of treating patients, we are very excited at the training potential that this suite will offer the WA medical industry,” Kevin said.

“Since its launch in mid-June 2010, Hollywood’s new angiography suite has already benefited over 60 patients, including patients undergoing endoluminal aortic grafts as well as cardioiology procedures. Both medical teams and patients are experiencing the benefits of the new facility in terms of speed, safety, efficiency and patient comfort according to Kevin Cass-Ryall, Executive Director of Hollywood Private Hospital.”

NEW CEO FOR RAMSAY SANTÉ

Ramsay Health Care is currently seeking a new appointment for the position of CEO of Ramsay Sánté, after the resignation of David Hillier who departed in early September 2010.

Head of European Strategy and Global Developments Craig McNally said Ramsay would go through an extensive recruitment process before appointing a suitable candidate.

“At this time, we expect the recruitment process to take some months, we have decided to install an Interim Chief Executive Officer, John Pittorino, currently CEO of Lake Macquarie Private Hospital in New South Wales, has been appointed to this interim position,” Craig said.

“John has had a long and distinguished career in private hospital management. Prior to joining Ramsay Health Care, John was the CEO and Managing Director of Community Private Health Care, a privately held, Australian company which operated 15 hospitals, domiciliary and home nursing services.

“He has worked for a range of trans-national and Australian public and private companies throughout Australia as CEO of large, stand-alone metropolitan hospitals as well as groups of smaller metropolitan, regional and rural facilities.

“John is a past president of the Australian Private Hospitals Association. John commenced as Interim CEO of Ramsay Santé on 20 September 2010.”

“Brian Lanigan will continue as Acting CEO of the Group in the meantime, and he will work closely with John to ensure an effective transition,” Craig said.

During this time, Dane Huxley has stepped in as interim CEO of Lake Macquarie Private Hospital and Trevor Matheson has taken over the CEO duties at Mitta Base Hospital.
NEW CARDIAC LEAD REMOVAL TECHNOLOGY AT NORTH SHORE PRIVATE

North Shore Private Hospital was the first private hospital in Australia to adopt a new cardiac lead removal technology, the Excimer Laser System.

The new technology offers physicians an efficient means by which to safely remove chronically implanted pacemaker and cardiac defibrillator leads. Cardiac leads are recommended to be removed, based on infection and malfunction, and manual extraction is often inhibited by scar tissue adhering to the length of the lead. The Excimer Laser produces pulsed bursts of “cool” ultraviolet light to gently dissolve the fibrous growth into particles that are easily absorbed into the blood stream. The physician guides the laser sheath over the cardiac lead, allowing the pulsed energy to do its work along the entire length of the lead.

Dr. Peter Brady, cardiac surgeon, North Shore Private, who will be undertaking these procedures with the laser, has extensive experience with removing cardiac leads and holds a current accreditation from the Cardiac Society of Australia and New Zealand for cardiac lead removal.

It spent some time with a leading US physician, Dr. Roger Carrillo, observing how to safely and effectively remove leads with the laser.

“The amount of scar tissue varies for each patient and each lead but the laser provides the highest standard of care with predictable and consistent outcomes,” Dr. Brady said.

On my return, I made it a goal to have this technology available to my patients and we have been able to do this at North Shore Private.”

It can also be used with specialized navigation equipment to provide GPS-like guidance in real time, allowing surgeons to completely visualise anatomy during high-risk spinal surgery, which greatly facilitates minimal invasive spine procedures.

Hospital Chief Executive Carol Bryant said that, for the patient, the new equipment would mean smaller incisions, faster recovery times, fewer surgical complications, reduced surgical blood loss and reduction in hospital stay.

“This is great news for the hospital and our surgeons. It is the only one in any NSW hospital, private or public,” Ms Bryant said. “At the moment, the machine is for spinal or hard tissue operations but, with added software, it can be used for other soft tissue procedures.”

Ms Bryant said surgeons were queuing up to use the new equipment because it meant greater accuracy of surgery.

“Accuracy of surgery can be verified prior to the patient leaving the theatre, by repeating the scanning process at the end of the procedure,” she said.

WESTMEAD LAUNCHES MULTIDIMENSIONAL SURGICAL IMAGING SYSTEM – A FIRST FOR NSW

Spinal and orthopaedic surgery at Westmead Private Hospital will now be easier thanks to a multi-dimensional surgical imaging system.

The new equipment – said to be a first for any NSW hospital – completes a 360 degree scan and is able to acquire 3D images of a patient, which provides the surgeon with information pertinent to treatment.

It was a very positive experience. It was a very positive experience. After 18 months Noosa Hospital has successfully negotiated for the return of public elective joint replacement surgery. This news has received widespread praise from patients, the hospital’s community board of advice and the local media.

Since the start of the year Noosa has worked hard at its relationship with Queensland Health and points to this additional $1,000,000 of funding as evidence of this. An additional boost for the hospital and local community is that the majority of this new funding is recurrent, safeguarding this valued service for future years.

Theatre Manager Judy Cox commented, “We’re pleased to be able to again extend our orthopaedic service to local public patients who will no longer have to travel to Nambour for their surgery. Our theatre staff and Orthopaedic Surgeons are excited about getting started.”

NEW SHARPS RECOGNITION PROGRAM

Northern Cancer Institute (NCI) St Leonards, based at North Shore Private, has expanded its services to a new location at Freshwater Forest. The expansion was to meet the increased demand for cancer services. NCI St Leonards treated an average of 15 people per week in 2010 to increase this to 20 people per week in 2011.

NCI St Leonards offers Chemotherapy, Oncology and Haematology Care. The new location also offers new patients the opportunity to visit the Northern beaches side of Sydney for treatment.

The Avenue was careful to recruit the right person to the program, thus every volunteer has undergone an interview process, full training and orientation prior to starting. Staff were also given information about working with volunteers.

A main focus has been on the admission and discharge process of the patient, with the volunteers assisting in the customer service aspects of both these areas. A volunteer office was established and is in a prominent position at front of house.

So far the program has provided much appreciated assistance to the overall care that the patients receive and the support provided to families and visitors at The Avenue Hospital.
Glenferrie Private Hospital in Victoria has been rated the second best private hospital in Australia by Medibank Private members in the Company’s annual Member Experience Survey. Taking out the National Silver Award for this achievement, Glenferrie also took out the State Gold Award for Victoria ranking the best private hospital in Victoria.

Medibank Private Hospital Experience Survey analysed 21,000 responses covering 144 private hospitals in the largest survey of its type in Australia.

The survey covers every stage of the hospital experience, from pre-admission to discharge and follow-up, with respondents sharing their thoughts on everything from the standard of medical treatment provided to privacy levels, food quality and cleanliness.

Overall, the survey showed a slight increase in satisfaction with the hospital experience when compared with the 2009 Hospital Experience Survey.

“We are really thrilled at this achievement and it is great for our staff and doctors to receive this feedback independently,” said Glenferrie Chief Executive Officer Gail Graham. “We have a great team at Glenferrie, who work very hard to ensure our patients have an excellent experience and they really deserve this accolade.”

Three of Ramsay’s hospitals, Albury Wodonga Private Hospital in Albury, Tamara Private Hospital in Tamworth and Armidale Private Hospital in Armidale were rated by Medibank Private members the equal best private hospitals in rural and regional Australia with all three taking out the National Regional and Rural Gold Award. They also scored equal first rankings in their home State of New South Wales, followed closely by Warners Bay Private Hospital which was rated second in the State.

Medibank Private Chief Executive Officer, Bruce Levy, said the Survey results provide an accurate insight into the experience of most private hospital patients.

“The Survey results indicate that, overall, Australians are very satisfied with the standard of care provided in the private health system. This is important because people who take out private health insurance want to know they’ll have access to services that suit their individual needs. This Survey shows private hospitals are delivering this. Other areas where respondents indicated high levels of satisfaction were the standard of communication from hospital staff; response times for medical and personal needs while in hospital; and pre-admission and admission procedures.

“The average score in this survey was 70/100.

PINDARA MATERNITY COMMISSIONS ITS “REGAL SUITES”

The maternity unit at Pindara Private Hospital has opened two new “regal suites” allowing for a premium service to be available to new parents following the birth of their baby. The hospital renovated two large private rooms, and decorated in “regal” themed colours and décor, to provide classy and sophisticated accommodation to new parents. These rooms have a lovely leafy outlook on to the adjoining park. To complete the upmarket sophistication of these rooms, those who purchase the package receive: all meals for the partner; accommodation for the partner; fresh fruit bowl; mini bar stocked with a range of beverages on arrival; cotton weave robe and matching lounge slippers; pamper packs for both parents; wireless internet and Foxtel; daily local newspaper. This exciting new initiative follows on from a similar idea being run in North Shore Private in Sydney where the VIP rooms are also very popular. The introduction of this package at Pindara has been very popular with already a waiting list for use of the rooms. The hospital is planning to commission a further two over the coming months.

GReenSlopes Wins private hospital innovative practice awards

Greenslopes Private Hospital was recognised at the recent Private Hospital Association of Queensland (PHAQ) Conference winning first and third place in the HESTA/PHAQ Innovative Practice Award.

PHAQ’s Innovative Practice in the Private Sector Conference provides a platform to showcase innovations in the private hospital sector and to share information about practical innovations which have demonstrated outcomes in the areas of clinical and non-clinical operational innovation, strategic innovations and innovations in education and/or HR Management.

Nurse Unit Manager of the Cyril Gilbert Cancer Centre, Michelle Beaud presented the improvements she had implemented in the Day Oncology services using the CHARM system and further expansion of patient support services including wellness programs to enhance the patient journey with cancer treatments.

Lyn Hart from HESTA SuperFund congratulated Michelle on winning the award and said that Michelle’s industry peers who attended the conference voted for her as a clear winner.

“The calibre of the 14 abstracts presented on the day was by far the best we have seen in a number of years,” Lyn said.

“The sharing of your initiative with others with a passionate, clearly articulated presentation that ticked all the boxes with regard to improving patient outcomes, increasing capacity, whilst reducing pharmacy costs and overall wait times was exceptional. Your post script of the supportive initiatives and the survivorship program made it not only exceptional but truly inspiring.”

Rachel Anders, Critical Care Educator, received third prize for her presentation on “Mission Critical” – a fantastic project of fast-tracking a graduate program in ICU demonstrating significant reduction in agency costs, high calibre of ICU graduates and a more stable workforce.

The fittest of the group went on to complete the Kargi Commando Course. “That was the hardest part”, said Ray, when describing his preparation.

While passing through the local villages Ray was also able to assist some of the locals in diagnosing and treating some of their arthritic knees, as well as infections. However, what he really walked away with was a personal journey of what the “Spirit of Kokoda” was all about.

CLOWN DOCTORS VISIT MILDURA

In August, Mildura Base Hospital was fortunate to receive a visit from the Clown Doctors. The Clown Doctors is described as an amazing and motivational effort by the WW team leader. They assist in making institution more entertaining for patients and families. Their presence helps create a more pleasant environment for patients and staff. Dr Achoo and Dr Nose provided plenty of laughs to patients (and not just the children!) staff and visitors.

PORT MACQUARIE MEDICO ASSISTS THE AUSTRALIAN ARMY

Dr Guy Hingston, general surgeon and surgical oncologist based in Port Macquarie, has recently returned from several South Pacific trips providing surgical support for the Australian Army. He has visited Honiara in the Solomon Islands several times in the last couple of years, being on the ground in case the Australian Defence Force (ADF) or the Australian Federal Police (AFP) required urgent surgical services, as part of the Regional Assistance Mission to the Solomon Islands (RAMSI).

He has just returned from a short stint in Wewak, Papua New Guinea, where the ADF have been assisting the Papua New Guinea Army with some infrastructure and support. Even though he went to Wewak primarily to provide cover for the ADF, he enjoyed the opportunity of helping out at the Wewak General Hospital, seen removing some shrapnel from an ankle injury (lacking an operating gown as the steriliser at the hospital had broken down) in the photo — above left. He was also able to offer some surgical teaching to two young surgical registrars, photographed (above right) offering advice during an appendicectomy.

He is wearing a set of theatre scrubs borrowed from the Port Macquarie Private Hospital, who also donated one box of sterile gloves and masks for his protection whilst in Papua New Guinea. Guy is looking forward to a brief stint in the Solomon Islands (RAMSI).

“TWILIGHT ZONE” – ANAESTHETIC/RECOVERY NURSING CONFERENCE

Berkeley Vale Private Hospital hosted the second Nursing Anaesthetic and Post Anaesthetic Conference appropriately called “The Twilight Zone” in July at the Crowne Plaza in Terrigal. Presenters discussed ten topics of interest for those who work in the pre-, peri- and post surgical areas. Such topics as fluid replacement vs overload, how to interpret end tidal CO2, how to succeed in renal failure, anaesthetic heart, the importance of positioning and update on the National Nursing Registration CPD system were presented. A total of 160 attendees and presenters participated in the day, with nursing attendees coming from both Ramsay Health Care facilities as well as other public and private hospitals, and day surgery centres in the region. Participants were also able to be involved in the “hands on” emergency management workstations gaining valuable skills and confidence for future emergencies in this nursing area. The day was a great success due to the committed team effort and interesting topics and the involvement of the hospitals accredited anaesthetists.

ST GEORGE PRIVATE HOSPITAL LAUNCHES ‘NEW LOOK’ WELLNESS PROGRAM FOR STAFF

Two years ago, St George Private Hospital took a proactive approach to promoting employee wellbeing by launching their Mind Body Balance Program. Recent events have included the highly successful 10,000 Steps Challenge in cooperation with local councils.

As part of their ongoing commitment to staff wellbeing, St George Private Hospital has launched a ‘new look’ Mind Body Balance program this week, with an exciting range of new activities and initiatives to support general wellbeing, personal development and community contributions. Kicking off with a Week of Wellness activities, St George Private Hospital celebrated the research with screening chair massages, department fruit drops, vision testing, an interactive wellness expo and free health checks.

St George Private Hospital CEO Tracey Burton said wellness programs for staff recognise that workplaces can assist staff to attain a better balance between their career and personal life. She said the programs are based on a holistic view of wellness within the workplace from occupational health and safety through to health promotion.

“Putting in place good wellness programs for staff will result in a win-win for employees and the organisation. For employees, it is about improved health status, job satisfaction and quality of life. For the organisation, it is about reduced injury rates and being an employer of choice,” Tracey said.

“The Wellness Programs we have launched provide a comprehensive range of initiatives across the wellness spectrum starting with free health checks and extending to financial wellness, employee assistance programs, flu vaccinations and much more. So, it is not just for fitness fanatics, but targeted at meeting the needs and interests of all staff.”

Future wellness programs in the hospital will be led by a Wellness Coordinator and a team of Wellness Ambassadors who will serve as the local wellness “champions” within their department. The launch of this program is supported by BUPA and HESTA.

NAMBOUR SELANGOR: LOOKING FABULOUS, FEELING FANTASTIC

Fifteen staff members from eleven areas of Nambour Selangor Private Hospital including surgical, medical, theatre, CSSD and catering joined the hospital’s first Weight Watchers at Work program, which launched in July. The Program is designed to assist staff to achieve their weight-loss goals and improve their wellbeing – at a place where we spend much of our time – at work. The Weight Watchers team looks after the overall Selangor Hospital Health care with one, encouraging and supporting them throughout their weight loss journey. In the first 6 weeks the team lost a combined total of 47 kg – described as an amazing and motivational effort by the WW team leader.
SHEPPARTON PRIVATE - SUPPORTING THE AUSTRALIAN NATIONAL PIANO AWARDS

For a number of years Shepparton Private Hospital has been a sponsor of the Australian National Piano Awards (ANPA) held bi annually in Shepparton. This year is the 10th anniversary of the awards which are internationally recognised. The ANPA started in 1992 with a Steinway, a stage and a small but passionate arts community in the regional Victorian city of Shepparton. Held every two years, the award is now considered the nation’s premier classical piano competition. It attracts musicians of the highest calibre, the services of international judges, and a dedicated group of high profile patrons and supporters, including its main sponsor, Dame Elisabeth Murdoch AC, DBE. The launch of the awards by the Victorian Governor Professor David de Kretser AC recently held at Government House was attended by Shepparton Private Hospital CEO Dom Melino and DCS Meg Watts.

HOSPITAL PARTNERSHIP – HELPING STUDENT DEVELOPMENT

CEO of Lake Macquarie Private Hospital, John Pitsonis, presents a cheque for $3300 to Charles and Dane, students at Windale Primary for vision screening of this year’s Year 1 and hearing screening for this year’s Year 2 students at Windale Public School, as well as students at Mount Hutton, Gateshead and Gateshead West Public Schools. The screening is able to identify difficulties young children may have so parents/carers can be directed to additional medical services, if required, and teachers can cater for the students individually, ensuring that their literacy development is not slowed.

YOUR DOLLAR GIVES HOPE...

RHC (SA) Mental Health Services staff at The Adelaide Clinic embraced the Anglicare Winter Warmth Appeal and successfully collected food goods, clothing articles and toys that numbered over 700 items. This generosity over the last 4 weeks shall be greatly appreciated by Anglicare for distribution to SA’s homeless. The Community team led by Ms Claire Eddowes coordinated the collection over the three sites, including Fularton and Kahlyn and were amazed at the response. A huge thankyou to all those staff that donated and Claire looks forward to a bigger drive in 2011.

RAMSAY RASCALS WALK FOR CANCER CURE IN CAIRNS

For the second year in a row the Cairns Private hospital's Ramsay Rascals took to Barlow Park to participate in the Cancer Council’s Relay for Life. The all-girl team of 10 raised $8200 for the Cancer Council and won third place in the baton competition in the annual event held on June 5 and 6. A total of 180 teams walked the track during the marathon 18 hour relay to support and pay tribute to those affected by cancer. Team organiser and Housekeeping Manager, Cheryl Inglis said the team was proud to be involved in such an important, emotionally moving and fun event. “Most of the girls in the team have all had a family member affected by cancer and that is what keeps the team spirit going,” Cheryl said. “The girls worked really hard to raise the money with a trash and treasure sale, a Mother’s Day, Easter and Christmas raffle, and outside plant stalls. We received invaluable support from the hospital staff who helped make it happen. “The Cairns community raises the most money for Queensland and we are the biggest supporters of Relay for Life, so it must be because of the very generous community up here.”

JESSICA SHAVES FOR HER DAD

Jessica Macdonald is a newly graduated Registered Nurse who works in the Critical Care area at Kareena Private Hospital. Last year Jessica’s Dad, Scott, was diagnosed with Acute Myeloid Leukaemia (AML). His recovery from this “random striking” disease has been long but remarkable. However, Jessica’s Mum and Dad have been helped in an amazing, almost decisive way, by the Leukaemia Foundation.

As a heartfelt thanks, Jessica is aiming to raise money for this amazing organisation by having her waist length hair cut off. If you would like to help Jessica raise much needed funds for the Leukaemia Foundation please contact Mariela Chiarini on (02) 9717 0225 or (chiarim@ramsayhealth.com.au) or Christine Woodcock on (02) 9717 0322 (woodcockc@ramsayhealth.com.au). RAMSAY MANAGER DEVELOPMENT PROGRAM

After the success of the 2009 Manager Development Program (MDP) pilot, the Ramsay Training Institute (RTI) will be conducting the Program again from October this year. The MDP is an innovative program designed specifically for new and aspiring managers, supervisors, and team leaders in Ramsay Health Care. The MDP is a ten month program incorporating various blended learning approaches including engaging eLearning courseware, toolboxes, structured online discussion webinars (one hour each in duration), and four days of facilitated intensive face-to-face sessions. RTI Manager Jody Meier said flexibility in the learning process, as well as opportunities for participants to network, share, and learn from the techniques and skills of other Ramsay Health Care colleagues, optimized the learning experience for participants. For more information, please visit the Ramsay Training Institute website: http://swidc41/sites/corporate/rti/default.aspx

Building a sustainable workforce together

“Tomorrow Starts Today” Forums have been scheduled for Nurse Managers and senior educators in each State in October and November. These forums will focus on the critical issue of workforce sustainability. In launching the Forums recently, Managing Director Chris Rex said the sustainability of the nursing workforce was threatened by a number of factors not the least of which was an ageing workforce against a backdrop of increasing demand.

“The whole healthcare sector is working on strategies to attract and maintain sufficient nursing and midwifery numbers to safely and effectively operate our facilities amidst a world-wide shortage. For Ramsay Health Care, a stable, capable and sustainable clinical workforce is also absolutely critical to our ongoing business success,” Chris said.

“The health workforce problem is nothing new. It is generally accepted that Australia will continue to experience increasing demand for health care workers at a rate that will challenge our training and service delivery systems, unless we make significant changes to our approach to workforce development.

FLEXIBLE LEAVE PROGRAM GOES NATIONAL

As part of Ramsay Health Care’s commitment to flexible work practices, Group HR has launched the highly successful “Flexible Leave Program”. This program, which has been running in Victoria and WA for a number of years, allows Ramsay employees the flexibility of better managing their leave to suit their individual requirements including the provision to apply to “purchase” up to an additional 4 weeks annual leave in exchange for proportionately less pay over the year.

In most States there are also options to take paid maternity leave or long service leave at double the time for half the pay (or vice versa), and also options to elect to cash out a proportion of annual leave or long service leave.

HR Manager Carolyn Terry said Ramsay Health Care believed that flexibility was a key benefit of working for Ramsay Health Care and the recent Employee Survey certainly supported this view. “The recent Ramsay Employee Survey highlighted that Ramsay staff place great value on the flexible work practices that the organisation can provide in helping staff to manage both their working life and family, study and other commitments outside of work.

“In fact 83.7% of all Ramsay Staff agreed with the statement ‘My organisation offers flexible work practices which help me to manage my work life balance.’ There were many complimentary comments in the survey about the positive impact of flexible work practices, for example ‘I have access to flexible work arrangements which is the main attraction to my job.’ ‘The flexibility is one of the reasons I work at the hospital. Management has always helped me work around study and other commitments’.

I have had excellent support and flexibility to continue as a working mother. “I think the company has a great approach to well-being and flexible work practices. It is definitely a positive of working for Ramsay Health”.

MAKING SENSE OF SALARY PACKAGING

The recent Ramsay Employee Survey alerted us to the fact that many Ramsay staff are unclear about the restrictions placed on Ramsay Health Care as a “for-profit” company by the Australian Tax Office regarding salary packaging as compared with public sector hospitals and those run by not-for-profit organisations. Comments such as “Where is the salary sacrificing that other health care companies have?”; and “Salary packaging should include mortgage and school fees like other hospitals,” were common sentiments expressed in the survey. A Public and/or Not-for-Profit Hospital may be deemed by the ATO to be a “PBI” (Public Benevolent Institution). A PBI may offer a wider range of items to salary package such as mortgages, rent and health insurance without incurring Fringe Benefits Tax. Ramsay is a “for-profit” company and the ATO will therefore not deem Ramsay to be a PBI. If Ramsay offered these same salary package items, as a “for-profit” organisation without PBI status, any salary packaging benefit would unfortunately be negated by the requirement to pay FBT. Any FBT must be ultimately paid for by the employee. It is important to note that the amount that may be salary packaged by a PBI employee is capped. At Ramsay, we are actually able to offer the same dollar equivalent in financial benefit as neighbouring public and not for profit hospitals, but on a more select range of FBT exempt items including novated car leases, self education expenses, financial and tax advice and income and disability protection insurance. Please note that there are specific criteria which may need to be met before these items are salary sacrificed. So, although our list of salary sacrificed benefits is somewhat less, we can still offer employees salary packaging as compared with public sector hospitals and companies have in making out more, please speak to your manager or payroll contact.

INAUGURAL QLD NURSES & MIDWIVES CONFERENCE

The inaugural QLD Nurses and Midwives Conference, held at Rydges South Bank on Saturday 21st August, was attended by around 290 staff from across Queensland.

Opened by Chief Operating Officer Danny Sims, the conference was an enormous success, with participants enjoying the professional development and networking opportunity. Guest speakers Tim Browne and Matt Church had the audience ‘pumped’ and everyone enjoyed a great laugh while learning about the serious side of health care.

Presentations from Ramsay Staff were well received, and staff enjoyed hearing about the hospital based initiatives and projects from Greenslopes and Nambour Selangor Private Hospitals.

In August, Liz Spaull (National Workforce Planning and Development Manager) was invited to attend the inaugural National Nursing Research Forum held in Melbourne. The event was hosted by the Australia and New Zealand Council of Chief Nurses alongside the Australia and New Zealand Council of Nursing and Midwifery Deans. Ramsay Health Care were invited as “thought leaders” to represent the Private Sector at this exclusive event.

The focus of the event was to enable dialogue between expert reference groups/individuals and the “Chiefs” in relation to arriving at recommendations for:

- The education (undergraduate and post graduate) of nurses and midwives in Australia
- Nursing research in Australia
- Nursing specific/sensitive data in Australia measuring the ways in which nurses contribute to health care outcomes directly
- Nursing roles and scope of practice in Australia
- Skill Mix in the future (given the diminishing pool of RNs)
- National Nursing and Midwifery Policy

A formal report of recommendations from the forum will soon be published and presented to Health Ministers and Health Workforce Australia.

Ramsay Health Care has successfully appointed Medichoice™ as partner for the importing, TGA registration and warehousing of all strategic sourced products over the next 5 years. Medichoice™ is a global distributor with strong holdings in the European, American and Middle East markets. Over the coming 4 months Medichoice™ products will start rolling out through Ramsay hospitals. These product categories include oxygen therapy, suction therapy, syringes and sterile surgical gowns. All products chosen for rollout have gone through extensive trialling and product development to ensure they are at least clinically equivalent to the majority of current product used in the Group. They are approved through the Clinical Assessment Group (CAG) and have passed hospital trials in at least 3 Ramsay facilities.

Like any supplier to The Ramsay Group, Medichoice™ have applied for and been successful in an open market tender for all current products for rollout by strategic sourcing. Success is measured through the clinical equivalence and financial benefit to current market.

To assist with the rollout process, all Ramsay hospitals have appointed a “Site Champion” to facilitate the communication of current and upcoming product for rollout to staff within their facilities. Site Champions will also be used to filter feedback to corporate office of any issues that may arise during the process. If you’d like to know who your Site Champion is, a complete listing of all members can be found on the intranet under Clinical Assessment Group. Here you can also find CAG minutes, trial sites and completed trial results.

Paul Fitmaurice, Executive Manager Corporate & Commercial Operations said, “We are entering a very exciting second phase of the strategic sourcing initiative with the appointment of Medichoice™. The Medichoice™ products are both financially attractive & the quality assurance from a global player creates the platform for a successful Group initiative. I am extremely appreciative of the assistance received to date from our hospitals & would like to thank all hospitals for their continued support.”

Ramsay Health Care has again been chosen in 2010 as one of 5 finalist out of 500 eligible nominations in the Queensland Q-Comp finals. This is a great achievement for QLD and one that reflects the excellent work and commitment of not only the QLD Workers Compensation Team but all the site Return to Work Coordinators in QLD.

She then worked as an Aide in Physiotherapy, assisted in the Cervical department, worked the switchboard and reception staff, and finally finished her career at LHPH as an Aide in the Occupational Therapy department. Rachel was farewelled at a morning tea with friends and staff, and finally finished her career at Lawrence Hargrave Private Hospital, working in all departments, except, in her words, “maintenance”, although she has done the odd job or two.

FAREWELL TRACEY

Tracey Burton will finish as CEO of St George Private Hospital on 15 October after being appointed Executive Director, Eastern Hospitals, with St. John of God Health Care. Tracey has been with Ramsay Health Care over two years and during that time she has done an outstanding job managing St George Private Hospital. She spearheaded the new process of moving New Farm Psychiatric Hospital over to St George Private Hospital. She was then appointed Chief Executive Officer of St George Private Hospital.

SUE FEENEY RETIRES

Sue Feeney, a Ramsay hospital manager since 1987, will retire on 14 December 2010, the exact date she started as the Director of Clinical Services at Ramsay’s Northside Clinic in Sydney, 23 years ago.

Sue was recently diagnosed with metastatic cancer and is currently undergoing treatment at Greenslopes Private Hospital in Brisbane. After a stellar career with Ramsay Health Care Sue has decided to retire and spend more time with Donna who has also recently retired, as well as her family and friends.

After five years as Director of Clinical Services and subsequently Chief Executive Officer at Northside Clinic, Sue was appointed Regional Manager of Ramsay’s three psychiatric hospitals in Sydney – Northside Clinic, Evehash Clinic and Lynton Private Hospital in 1992 – a role she held for six years.

Sue was then appointed Chief Executive Officer of Albert Road Clinic in Melbourne in 1998 when the Clinic was just two years old. “This was one of the highlights of my career,” Sue said. Albert Road Clinic was a fairly new hospital and we worked hard to build the occupancy, fill the consulting suites, develop new programs and services and establish the hospital as a leading psychiatric facility in Melbourne. “I think we were quite successful. The hospital developed a lot of credibility in the community, we appointed a Professorial Chair of Psychiatry position at the Clinic. The hospital’s occupancy increased from 60% to 100% by the time I left. I am really proud of this achievement and by the time I finished at Albert Road Clinic it was a healthy and happy hospital.”

In 2003, Sue became Chief Executive Officer of New Farm Clinic in Brisbane where she has been CEO for the past eight years.

State Operations Manager Queensland Lloyd Hill said Sue had many significant achievements in her time at New Farm. “She has cemented many excellent relationships with her VMOs and as a result New Farm Clinic has been a consistent and strong performing hospital.

“Sue has overseen the successful development program at New Farm which saw the hospital grow to 88 beds and has been instrumental in planning for the next stage of growth which will see New Farm Clinic grow to 152 beds. Sue will be a difficult person to replace,” said Lloyd. During her 23 years with Ramsay Health Care, Sue also served on multiple external industry committees representing psychiatry and mental health including committees of the Australian Private Hospitals Association (APHA) and the College of Psychiatry but also key government committees such as the Mental Health Council of Australia on which she was Deputy Chairman for four years. Sue was Chair of the APHA psychiatric committee for 8 years, Deputy Chair of the Strategic Planning Group for Private Psychiatric Services; and the APHA Board representative for psychiatry for 8 years.

Ramsay Chairman Paul Ramsay describes Sue as part of the fabric of the company. “Sue has been with Ramsay for a very long time. She has been CEO of many of our great psychiatric hospitals. Ramsay started in the psychiatric business and we have developed an excellent reputation in this industry for psychiatric care – partly due to people like Sue and their good management and leadership. Sue has also been involved in the development of new hospitals such as The Cairns Clinic which we opened recently.

“Sue is a really wonderful person, always ready to be of assistance to others. She is an integral part of the fabric of this company and we will miss her greatly,” Paul said.

About Sue and her health Ramsay Chief Executive Officer says “I have really enjoyed my time at Ramsay Health Care. In the past two decades I have made some very valuable friendships and Ramsay has really been a significant part of my life. I am very pleased to have chosen a better or more wonderful organisation to work for. To me, both professionally and personally, it has been great to be part of the Ramsay Health Care team.”
